Aftermath: A young boy was taken to Kingston Hospital following the crash

Car smash

A seven-year-old boy was taken to hospital after a car crashed into a wall in Kingston.

The crash happened at about 3.30pm on Friday, May 24.

John Dines, 24, an analyst from Fairfield South, saw the crash on his way home.

He said: "I saw it from about 100m away. This car pulled out of [Dudley Road]. Traffic had stopped here, and it went into the side of another car."

"I think the driver panicked and accelerated and went on the kerb and went through the wall. She had a seven-year-old son in the car who had quite a bad cut on his head and blood all over his face."

A spokesman for the London Ambulance Service said the boy was taken to Kingston Hospital.

Students torture man after dragging him off street, court hears

A group of Kingston University students kidnapped a man and assaulted him with a heated screw driver, belt and a spanner in a four-hour ordeal, a court has heard.

Three students who lived in a maisonette in Robin Hood Way, Kingston, allegedly punched and dragged receptionist Vrajesh Yadav off the street at Norbiton station and took him back to their flat on November 28.

When they arrived, it was alleged, two other men joined in beating the 20-year-old, the court heard.

by NAZIA DEWJI

ndewji@london.newsquest.co.uk

The group allegedly robbed him of his silver watch, Fendi wallet, three Visa cards, cash and a BlackBerry phone.

Claiming Mr Yadav had stolen from them the night before, when Mr Yadav had stayed over as a guest of Ebrahim Hassan Shaikh, the group took him to a cash machine near Kingston University, but Mr Yadav pressed the wrong Pin three times, the court heard.

During his alleged ordeal he was made to clean up his own blood stains using detergent and allowed to frequently wash the blood off his face in the bathroom, where he also vomited.

Prosecutor Martin Paltengai said: "A young man was forcibly held in a car by three men outside Norbiton station. He was taken back to a flat above a shop."

"Over the next couple of hours he was held against his will and subjected to a series of terrifying assaults. He was covered in blood. It was quite apparent he had been assaulted."

Mr Yadav's alleged torture only came to an end when he convinced the men to drive him to East Ham, where he lived, and he got away.

Mr Paltengai said: "What you cannot do is take the law into your own hands. By the time the first three defendants got to Norbiton station that is what they decided to do. None of them called the police."

"All three left together in the Vauxhall. One of them was also armed with a wrench or a spanner."

Mohammed Afzal, 22, from Walsall,

Ebrahim Hassan Shaikh, 19, of Wood Street, Kingston, and Rayad Mohammed Miah, 22, from Birmingham all deny robbery, kidnap, attempted robbery and attempting to inflict grievous bodily harm.

Gasim Gasim, 22, of Burnham Street, Kingston, denies false imprisonment, attempting to inflict grievous bodily harm while Sooraj Noori, 20, of King Henry's Road, Kingston, denies false imprisonment, attempting to inflict grievous bodily harm and kidnapping.

The trial continues.

Homework pays off as new secondary go ahead

Kingston will finally be getting a new secondary school – but when it will open and how much it will cost remains unclear.

After a five-year campaign, parents and politicians celebrated this week after the Department for Education (DfE) approved an application by the Kingston Educational Trust (KET) to create a free school for 11 to 18-year-olds at the North Kingston Centre in Richmond Road.

The new school will be co-educational, non-selective and non-faith, and will have six forms of entry for 180 children a year.

But details of how much money the school will get and

by ROSS LOGAN
ross.logan@london.newsquest.co.uk

when it will open are still to be ironed out.

Amid the celebrations, KET director Graham Willett gave a cautious welcome to the news.

He said: “On the one hand we are genuinely excited, but there is still a lot of detail to be worked out. We are not being coy about the answers. We do not know the answers, and if we say too much there is a risk of making conversations going forward a bit trickier.”

“We have been moved to the approved projects list. We now go into the next stage to agree a funding package.

“That process will start very soon but we are waiting to confirm that.”

The KET is a partnership between Kingston University, Kingston College and Education Kingston – itself a collaboration between Kingston Council and borough schools.

Despite being a free school, designed to give parents and teachers control, Mr Willett confirmed the council, the university and the college would all have representation in the governance of the school.

Kingston College principal Peter Mayhew-Smith said: “This is very much part of our commitment to support education in Kingston and help provide local solutions for our community.

“It will make sure that there are enough school places for young people growing up in Kingston.”

Politicians from both the ruling Liberal Democrats and the opposition Conservatives expressed delight at the DfE’s decision.

MPs Zac Goldsmith and Edward Davey, Kingston Council leader Derek Osbourne and opposition member for schools Andrea Craig, who said she got into politics because of the school place crisis, were among those who tweeted their pleasure, although there was a row over which party should take the credit.

Primary is approved

It is not just families in north Kingston who are getting a new school.

A bid by the Chapel Street Community Schools Trust to build a new two-form entry primary school in Motspur Park was also approved by Education Secretary Michael Gove on Wednesday last week.

Raynes Park Community School will serve families in Motspur Park, Raynes Park and West Wimbledon, and be “founded by the community for the community”, according to the prospectus.

The Chapel Street Community Schools Trust already runs a secondary school in Wigan, with another due to open in Oxford in September.

A site for the new school is yet to be located.

Elsewhere, a bid by Gems Education for a primary school serving Tolworth and New Malden was turned down.

Councillor David Ryder-Mills said: “I welcome Chapel Street to the family of local schools.

“We have worked closely with them and were impressed by their community-centred approach.

“I am sorry that the proposal for a primary school in New Malden and Tolworth was turned down, but we will provide further support if the proposers wish to submit an improved bid.”

Mucking in

Fifty volunteers mucked in to install a sensory garden at Ellingham Primary School in Chessington recently – and completed the task in just five hours.

Pupils will be able to grow their own fruit and vegetables in a market garden, and “grub around” in a habitat area.

Is pockpocket targeting shops with no CCTV?

A pockpocket targeting charity shops that cannot afford CCTV could be on the loose in Surbiton.

A thief stole a purse from a woman’s handbag at Oxfam, Victoria Road, on May 21, following a similar incident at the shop a few weeks earlier.

Nicky Marsh, 33, manager at Surbiton Oxfam, said: “We have not really had any kind of pickpocketing before, it is a recent thing.”

“I have been thinking it seems like it has stepped up and I am really unhappy about it. It seems like we are being victimised.”

The incident on Monday happened at about 4pm. The suspect bumped into a woman who was browsing cards, Ms Marsh claimed, and when the woman then went to the till she discovered her purse had been taken.

Ms Marsh called police and was told there was not much they could do, she said, because there was no CCTV in the shop.

They offered to send a community support office to patrol the shop.

Investigations are ongoing.

'Hospital shaved off dad's 70-year-old moustache'

A man has lodged a complaint after Kingston Hospital shaved his father's 70-year-old moustache off.

Ian Perkin said nurses forcibly shaved off 86-year-old Ken's moustache and then told him he was "lucky" to be receiving care at all, after Mr Perkin junior raised concerns.

After 12 weeks in hospital, former Sergeant Major Ken Perkin was finally discharged from Tolworth Hospital on May 20 – but his son is still furious with his treatment in Kingston.

And he said if the shaving had occurred outside of the hospital, the perpetrator could have faced jail.

Ian Perkin, who works for Surrey Police and Crime Commissioner Kevin Hurley as chief finance officer, said: "In policing terms, removing somebody's moustache against their will is assault. If I did that to somebody at a bus stop, I'd probably get six months."

Ken Perkin was admitted to hospital in February following a fall at his home – a granny annex built on to the side of his son's house in Morden Green Avenue, Worcester Park.

He was taken first to St

George's Hospital in Tooting, before being transferred to Kingston two weeks later.

Although he was meant to be moved to Tolworth Hospital almost immediately, he spent five weeks in Kingston due to several hospital acquired infections, Mr Perkin said.

It was there, on April 3, that Ian visited his father to find his moustache – which he had worn since he was a sergeant major in the Army almost 70 years ago – had been removed.

But after raising concerns with the ward matron, Mr Perkin claims his father was threatened by a nurse unhappy with the complaint.

Ian Perkin said: "He told me a nurse said 'You are lucky we are still caring for you after your son complained about us.'"

A spokeswoman for Kingston Hospital NHS Trust said: "We want all of our patients to have a good experience and were sorry to learn the Perkin family were not happy with our care."

"We are looking into their complaint and will be providing a full response to Mr Perkin's son."

Owner admits guilt after bulldog attacks

Jurors listened to the distressing 999 call an elderly woman made after a bulldog attacked her and her two dogs for the second time in a month.

American bulldog Bulls-eye charged at Anne Loring, who was left with a dislocated shoulder and a broken arm.

Dominique Daly, 48, of Orchid Close, Chessington, admitted two counts of being the owner of a dangerous dog in a public place, but had denied his dog had caused any injuries.

Jurors at Kingston Crown Court heard the desperate words of Mrs Loring when she called police officers to report the attack.

She said: "I've been dragged the whole length of the road. My dog is covered in blood. He is injured. His dog has once again attacked us. I can't believe it. I was only a couple of minutes away from home."

"I am scared to go out there. It's waiting for me. He will kill us next time. I know he will."

She had been walking her two cavalier King Charles spaniels, Alfie and Cassey, along Nigel Fisher Way in Chessington when the attack happened on October 26, 2011.

Weeks before, Bulls-eye

Court: Daly, third left, at an earlier hearing had also attacked the family – leaving Mrs Loring with bruises on her hands and dog Alfie in need of stitches – in Sir Francis Barker recreation ground on October 13.

Daly, who appeared in court sporting a Mohican hairstyle dressed in a dark suit with a tattoo on the back of his neck, was found guilty of the two counts at Kingston Crown Court on Tuesday, May 21, following a two-day trial.

Giving evidence, Mrs Loring said: "I was very frightened. I remember what happened and can still see it to this day."

Chessington Sergeant Dave Boyle said the safer neighbourhood team in Chessington South had set up a "dog watch" for residents to report incidents.

Daly will be sentenced after pre-sentence reports.

Tarby: Second allegation

Veteran comedian Jimmy Tarbuck had a second allegation of sexual assault made against him last week.

The alleged offence is said to have taken place at a golf course in Kingston.

The alleged victim, a man aged 32, is said to have gone to Surrey Police after finding out about Mr Tarbuck's arrest on April 26.

Accused: Jimmy Tarbuck

The Metropolitan Police said they would not confirm or deny any details.

A spokesman from Surrey Police said: "We received an allegation that has been referred to another force. We are not investigating."

North Yorkshire Police are still investigating the first allegation, where it is alleged Mr Tarbuck sexually abused a boy in Harrogate, North Yorkshire, in the 1970s.

It is believed the new claim against the 73-year-old is being handled by Scotland Yard.

Mr Tarbuck is married, with three children, including the television and radio presenter Liza Tarbuck.

Officers are investigating the new allegations, which are not part of Operation Yewtree – the investigation set up following the death of serial paedophile Jimmy Savile in 2011.

Flu jab reminder

Kingston had the second lowest percentage of pensioners in England immunised against flu last year, putting them at risk of pneumonia and bronchitis.

Only 68 per cent of over-65s were immunised between September 1, 2011, and January 31, 2012, the latest NHS statistics revealed.

Elderly people, as well as pregnant women, young children, and people with serious medical conditions, are encouraged to get immunised.

'Service same despite fewer cops'

Air gripes on housing

Losing the equivalent of 44 full-time police officers over three years has not resulted in a worse service, Conservative London Assembly member Tony Arbour has said.

He also said the perception there were fewer police on the street was not correct.

He said: "It is true police officer numbers have declined, but, equally, so has crime."

"The decline in police officers is also related to what the

by JON SHARMAN
jon.sharman@london.newsquest.co.uk

police officers actually do.

"It does not matter how many you have, if they are all sitting in the office playing Angry Birds."

Kingston also lost the equivalent of nearly 30 police community support officers between April 2011 and March this year.

Labour's London-wide assembly member Murad

Qureshi said the number of officers lost was "concerning".

He said: "The vast majority of these officers have been lost from the borough's police teams. Hollowing out the front line like this cannot continue."

"Instead of cutting the police budget by 20 per cent and buying water cannon, the Government and the Mayor should be resourcing the police."

Metropolitan Police figures also revealed between June 2011 and December last year, the percentage of people in Kingston who said they were worried or very worried about crime had fallen from 32 to 27.

On Monday, May 20, Chessington residents learned about the new local policing model.

Chief Inspector Bill Heasman told the Chessington District Residents' Association each of the borough's 16 wards will have a dedicated constable and community support officer, who will not be taken to other areas.

He admitted the police had played their cards "close to their chest" regarding the plans, because the details had not been finalised.

He was grilled by residents on neighbourhood problems such as antisocial behaviour.

Several people said communication between Kingston Council and the police had led to unaddressed concerns.

Tenants in the borough can meet Kingston Council's housing contractors as part of a new plan to improve dialogue and reporting of concerns.

Meetings will take place at the council's Tadlow offices in Washington Road, Kingston.

Food enthusiasts hungry for more

Foodies hope to take over Tolworth and Thames Ditton next year as plans for the second Surbiton Food Festival take off.

The inaugural event culminated with racing sardines and a tug-of-war between ancient clans on Saturday, May 18.

It was followed by a big brunch throughout Surbiton the next day.

Robin Hutchinson, the man behind the Community Brain, said: "It would be lovely next year to feel that every area of Surbiton, stretching down into Tolworth and Thames Ditton, has got food events going on."

"Although we got a lot right this year I am sure that there were bits we didn't."

The festival spanned two weeks and combined

by HANA HAUSMEISTER

hana.hausmeister@london.newsquest.co.uk

independent food traders such as CD Jennings butchers, the Pickled Pantry, the Surbiton Flyer and Fabuloaf, with arts and crafts enthusiasts and the YMCA to create a home-grown community event.

The sports day featured events such as relay and a tug-of-war, all with a twist imagined by the group behind Surbiton Ski Sundays.

Lucas Heathcote, who visited from Shoreham Beach, said: "I am loving it."

"The races are always a riot and, without the races, it is just a bunch of concession stands in a field."

Alex Stacey said: "The sardine race was hysterical. "It has been brilliant. It is a great family event and we loved the story time."

Folksy live bands, a beer festival, freshwater sardines and a village fete helped to transform areas such as St Andrew's Square into a bustling cultural centre.

Raeburn Avenue resident Rike Jones said: "It was lovely. It is our first time here."

"I think our highlights have been the ambulance and the juggling."

"And I think Little Sister Blue the band were amazing."

Organisers are keen to plan the next event.

There will be an open meeting to discuss the future of the festival on June 3 at the Holiday Inn, Portsmouth Road.

High hopes for haiku writers

Kingston pupils visited their own Bentalls walk of fame as 20 haiku poems went on display at the department store.

Children between the ages of seven and 10 have been exploring Japanese short poems over the past few months as part of Haiku Hopes, a project run by Kingston Connections.

The poems of Nancy Bucke, nine, Sam Wakefield, eight, and Erin Crombie, seven, were three of the first 20 put on display. The trio went to see their work at the store.

Nancy, from St John's Primary School, said: "We had a great time making up our poems and it's brilliant to see them here."

The Kingston Connections team has been delivering workshops at primary schools across the borough, to encourage pupils to get creative.

Bentalls will soon be host to 50 of the best haikus from the project.

Stuart Bird, writer in residence at Surbiton High School, who ran the workshops, said: "The quality of the poems is wonderful. You have children producing some thought-provoking and beautiful verse."

To find out more about Kingston Connections, visit kingstonconnections.co.uk. Tweet your haikus to #haikuhopes.

The new owners of the derelict Worcester Park Tavern pub have hinted the site may become a hotel.

Shahrestani Development bought the site in Park Terrace after the Spirit Pub Company sold it last year.

New owner Shiraz Bhogani said the Pinner-based company had land-banked the site after seeing it on the market for a reasonable price.

He said: "We are a hotel company so we are looking at all the options."

Concert in daughter's memory

A Kingston GP will host a charity concert to raise awareness of the illness that took the life of his teenage daughter last year.

The head of the Kingston clinical commissioning group Naz Jivani will host the musical and poetry event at the Rose Theatre on Saturday, June 6 – on the eve of what

by NAZIA DEWJI

ndewji@london.newsquest.co.uk

would have been his daughter Stevie's 21st birthday.

The 19-year-old died suddenly after she complained of chest pains and collapsed in Kingston accident and emergency department on April 21 last year, while her family were holidaying in Portugal.

Mr Jivani said: "Having it before her 21st reflects the start of her life. We have been through a distressing year and we wanted to have an event that was more celebratory and uplifting."

"This shows you can be positive. You can be really down or you can look forward and see what you can do to help other people get screening."

Stevie had been studying childhood, culture and education in her second year at Birmingham University when she suffered a rupture of a major blood vessel around the heart.

According to charity Cardiac Risk in the Young (Cry) at least 12 young people die in sudden deaths from undiagnosed heart conditions every week.

As part of Mr Jivani's awareness campaign Cry has been able to reach out and get more people screened for the illness.

Father-of-two Joel Curry from Lancashire was pushed into the screening by his wife, who heard of the campaign.

Mr Curry said: "After further examination I'm not at risk and I can carry on life as normal. I was lucky, but there will be people who might benefit from screening."

Mr Jivani previously described his daughter as a very outgoing, headstrong and happy girl who was always laughing and loved singing and dancing.

She had wanted to become a primary school teacher and was looking forward to starting a life with her long-term boyfriend, who she had been seeing since she was 13.

The event will also host a photography competition titled Joy of Life and a poems anthology, named 21, with all proceeds going to Cry.

Group floats alternative plans for filter beds site

by HANA HAUSMEISTER

hana.hausmeister@london.newsquest.co.uk

A developer has poured cold water on ideas of a lido, tai chi class or carol singing on the Surbiton filter bed site from activists and residents.

The Friends of Seething Wells (FOSW) held a public meeting to capitalise on Hydro Properties' failed bid to build floating homes on the site, rejected by the council in January.

Hydro director Philip Wallis, who was not at the meeting, said he remained confident about the outcome of Hydro's appeal.

Mr Wallis said: "It is interesting these people telling us what we should be doing are also standing in the way of progress."

The FOSW proposed an alternative plan, to transform the site into an accessible area, harking back to its original use as filter beds.

Residents at the public meeting, held on May 17, suggested holding a wild lido, tai chi classes or old English carolling at the site in the future.

Among the audience at St

Public meeting: Ideas for a wild lido, tai chi and carolling were put forward

Andrew's and St Mark's School in Maple Road last Friday were Kingston and Surbiton MP Edward Davey, and deputy Kingston Council leader, Councillor Liz Green.

Several residents questioned why Hydro Properties was not maintaining the railings on the listed site, as its current owner.

But Surbiton resident Andrew Loftus criticised the idea of bringing more houses into the area.

He said: "This area has not got the facilities to take any more people. The infrastructure is cracking. We do not need more unnecessary development, we need more open space."

Meanwhile, Kate Sabey, 33, from Porton Court, said: "I am really impressed at the support."

"I like the idea of outdoor classes. It would be great for the community and the children."

Love Kingston gifts handed over

by ROSS LOGAN

ross.logan@london.newsquest.co.uk

Five Kingston charities have received their first donations from a new borough-wide fundraising appeal.

Love Kingston handed out cheques to its chosen charities for the first time since its launch last October, with each project receiving £2,470 each.

The campaign was set up to provide "pathways out of poverty" for underprivileged people in Kingston, by raising money for five good causes – Hestia, Kingston Churches Action on Homelessness, Kingston Foodbank, Kingston Savers, and Oxygen – which are each dedicated to helping poor and vulnerable people.

The appeal has also founded the Kingston Legacy Fund, which donates money to other good causes in the borough.

Since its inception, the Love Kingston appeal has brought together several business, charities and individuals who have made donations or undertaken various challenges to raise cash for the campaign.

The biggest event so far has been Love Kingston Day, where hundreds of people spent Valentine's day fundraising for the appeal.

That was followed by four people – Glen Smailes, Charmaine Sainsbury, Joanne Barber and Ian Fitzpatrick –

Ceremony: Coun Mirza hands over cheques to the charities running the London marathon in support of Love Kingston in April.

That same month, the campaign received a £10,000 donation from the Shiraz Mirza Trust Community Halls – to be split between the five charities and the Kingston Legacy Fund.

Councillor Mirza was on hand to distribute the cheques.

Love Kingston fundraising manager Elaine Miller said: "Since our launch in October, many individuals and groups have been working together in the community to raise money for charity projects in Kingston."

"A special thanks to Ian, Jo, Charmaine and Glen who ran in the Virgin London marathon, Stella and her friends who rowed from Lechlade to Teddington, the Euphonix Choir who sang at the Rose Theatre, those who have baked cakes, organised raffles and so much more."

"By helping to support those in need in our community, you'll be making our borough an even more wonderful place to live and work."

Love Kingston is looking for fundraisers to take part in the Kingston Run Challenge on Sunday, October 13.

Visit humanrace.co.uk/events/running/kingston-run-challenge or lovekingston.org.uk for more.

Dirty place to eat out?

Consumer group Which? has identified Worcester Park as the second-dirtiest place to eat out after surveying more than 2,000 postcodes across the country.

The average food hygiene rating in the KT4 postcode was just 2.63 out of five, according to figures from the Food Standards Agency (FSA).

Which? executive director Richard Lloyd said the findings showed there was a "postcode lottery" when it came to hygiene.

He said: "We want everywhere that serves food to the public to display their hygiene score prominently so people can make an informed choice."

Ninety-five per cent of people surveyed by Which? agreed the displays should be mandatory, while three-quarters said they would not eat somewhere rated below "generally satisfactory".

Caroline Boore, manager of the carvery at the Hogsmill Tavern, which has an exemplary rating of five, said: "We check the kitchen rigorously twice a day. There are lots of people coming and so you do really have to make the time and effort to make sure it is clean and tidy."

Meeting and talking with the technician making your denture is a key benefit. The team has been trained directly by Dr Stewart to be able to carry out treatment to the highest level.

Amazing Results

Many patients have confidence in their dentist treating their natural teeth but often feel that they are less capable in assisting them with their denture problems.

The Denture Clinic has seen and helped with just about every conceivable denture problem that exists and has developed many new exclusive techniques to improve dentures and solve issues.

In recent years the clinic has also pioneered new systems including 3D dentures, and conventional dental implants for dentures to "clip" onto. For those who are not suitable for this Mini Dental Implants can often be a solution.

The Denture Clinic receives numerous referrals from general dentists and helps solve common patient frustrations with dentures.

THE FUTURE OF LONDON FIRE BRIGADE

London Fire and Emergency Planning Authority is consulting on its Draft Fifth London Safety Plan and we'd like your views.

We are holding a public meeting for residents of Kingston and Richmond upon Thames on Tuesday, 4 June 7–9pm at Clarendon Hall, York House, Richmond Road, Twickenham TW1 3AA where we will outline our plans.

The plan sets out how the fire and rescue service could be delivered over the next few years. Amongst other things, it includes plans to keep within our target attendance times for getting to incidents and details how savings worth £28.8m could be made. These proposals also involve the closure of 12 fire stations, the removal of 18 fire engines, the redeployment of four fire engines and a reduction in the number of firefighter posts of 520.

For full details of the plan proposals and our online consultation go to: london-fire.gov.uk/LSP5

If you'd like us to send you a copy of our plan and consultation document, ring: 0800 9888 569

The Ahmadiyya Muslim Community

LOVE
HATRED
FOR NONE

Celebrating 100 Years of Promoting Peace in London: 1913-2013

Since its inception in 1889, the Ahmadiyya Muslim community has been leading a global effort to revive the true, peaceful message of Islam as taught by the Holy Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of Allah be upon him). This revival of the true Islamic teachings was initiated by the founder of the community, Hadhrat Mirza Ghulam Ahmad (peace be upon him).

With this desire for peace, the community has grown and is now established in more than 200 countries. In the UK, it is one of the oldest Muslim organisations and in 2013 will celebrate 100 years in the UK.

"...I must say that every Ahmadi who lives in Great Britain is an extremely loyal citizen of the country and loves it; and this is because of the teachings of our Prophet [Muhammad] (peace and blessings of Allah be upon him) who instructed us that love of one's country is an integral part of one's faith."

Address delivered at the House of Commons, Oct. 2008 by Hadhrat Mirza Masroor Ahmad – Head of the worldwide Ahmadiyya Muslim community.

Young members raise thousands each year for the Poppy Appeal.

In 2012, the Ahmadiyya Muslim Community UK presented a cheque for £142,500 for the Queen's Diamond Jubilee Trust. In total, the Community donated more than £350,000 to British charities in 2012.

Over the past century the Ahmadiyya Muslim community has played an active part in UK local and national life and it has the distinction of building London's first mosque which was opened in 1926. The historic Fazl Mosque in Southfields, also known as The London Mosque, has played host to many national and international dignitaries and it remains a vibrant centre for the community and a house of peace for all.

OPENING OF THE FIRST & THE ONLY MOSQUE IN LONDON.

Hundreds of distinguished Britishers are listening to the telegraphic message of Hazrat Khalifatul Masih.

"East and West have rarely met in a setting so strange and picturesque as seen yesterday, when for the first time in London's long history, the Mohammedan call to prayer was sung from the glistening minarets of a Mosque at Southfields."—The Daily Chronicle, dated 4.10.1926.

Offer of stall and a place on waiting list not same

I have recently read your paper on the dumping of three traders on the Kingston Market (Fighting the boot, May 16).

I am the son of one of the stallholders and what Kingston First does not realise is all the time my mum is out of work I do not get pocket money.

My mum says I started with her at the stall when I was about nine to 12 months old.

A lot of the customers come just to see me, especially the ones with animals.

The so-called managers, Kingston First, that have all these ideas, told market traders they gave us an offer of a stall on the food market, so mum and dad sorted out food wholesales and gave me the chance to change the name of the business.

On the last day my mum took some of the food to the market to show them and told them that she wanted to change.

They said we had to see the chamber of commerce with a business plan, which Kingston First has.

When my mum handed the keys in on the last day – 30 minutes before she had her locks changed – she was told she will have to see the chamber of commerce.

This week, after she sees the chamber of commerce, she will be put on the waiting list for her own stall back.

I am only 11, but I can understand that an offer and a place on a waiting list are not the same thing.

As my mum said, she waited for four years to get one in the first place.

She said the lady in the office said we will not start at the bottom, we will go in the middle as we were good and experienced traders – that will mean two years – I do not think I can hold on that long for my pocket money.

ADAM LASSITER, 11,
Via email

Fairfield option for traders is not attractive

What arrogance from Kingston First's nameless spokeswoman (Fighting the boot, May 16).

She said: "We have made a decision and want to move on" – ie, "because I say so".

To say, ungrammatically, that "there was [sic] no grounds for extension" when the matter is being contested, suggests that Kingston First believes that it, and not due process of law, has the final say on the matter.

The suggestion that the three evicted traders should move to the Fairfield Monday market is obviously not attractive – the word "Monday" is a clue.

A week after the evictions, Kingston First's own website still proclaims "Kingston's ancient market is also the place to go for gifts and clothing, including handmade jewellery and vintage clothing.

"You can also pick up second-hand DVDs, cards, party accessories and general household goods."

What hypocrisy, to advertise as an attraction even after you have closed it down for lowering the tone of the place.

In whose name, under what authority, and in whose interests, does Kingston First operate?

I can find no evidence that market traders are even represented on the board.

Those traders still left may want to note that the "artist's vision" of the revamped Market Place, with which the Kingston Guardian's article is illustrated, shows no market stalls at all.

Creep towards taller buildings is insidious

Re: The image of the proposed development next to John Lewis, Kingston.

The perspective was very interesting, being from a high angle (from the roof of what was the Slug and Lettuce), one did not notice immediately just how tall this proposed development is.

On examining the drawings we have found the central building, which abuts the existing student accommodation in Vicarage Road is at least twice as high as Bentalls, its car park, or John Lewis's parapet – about 37.5m or 123ft.

The smaller building, to the right, is also considerably higher than John Lewis at about 30m, or 100ft.

It ranks in size with the monstrosities on the other side of the railway that were forced upon us by Hazel Blears.

Some of the attached documentation states "it can be seen that the proposed development is now of a similar height to the nearby existing surrounding buildings". This is clearly untrue and very worrying.

The idea that the proposed

Storey time: An artist's impression of the plans cultural quarter or arts square, or whatever it is called, will benefit Kingston is a nonsense. It is minute and is no more than a fig leaf.

This creep towards taller buildings adjacent to the core of the town is insidious and is yet another step toward Croydonising Kingston.

It is our opinion that this scheme is totally out of place and should be rejected when it comes before the planning committee.

CHILD'S PLAY

An artist who was not allowed paints as a child because they were "too messy" will be exhibiting her work in Surbiton ahead of a summer show at Llewellyn Alexander, writes Hana Hausmeister.

Jenny Meehan, a painter from Chessington, will return to display her Recent Works at the Cornerhouse.

She says: "Recently I have concentrated on this abstract sort of thing. It is a bit difficult to speak about subject matter because the works do not actually contain subject, they are more emotionally expressive paintings."

The exhibition will include Well Spring, a painting that was chosen to appear in a booklet on mental health, which will be distributed in NHS services across the country.

Meehan says: "I feel very grateful to have an image of this painting included in such a great project."

Having been an art enthusiast since she was a child, Meehan says her foray into painting was challenging from the start.

She says: "I do not think I was allowed any paints as a child because they were too messy. But I went round the Tate gallery once when I was 10 and thought 'I want to do this'."

A painter of both representational and experimental styles, she says she became fascinated with abstract only recently.

She says: "When you are painting or doing anything you do not have a set outcome in mind. Everything you do changes what you are doing."

"With the paintings and the prints it starts off in a very open, playful way. It is only towards the end of it, towards the latter stages that you start to maybe have an idea of what the concept might be."

She adds: "Although the paintings are abstract, they are not really 'abstract'. I do not really see the representational being much different, apart from with the abstract ones I do not really rely on objects."

"When I started painting more from nature I didn't see the abstract as being 'not natural'. Everything that comes out has to come in, in some way."

MIDGE'S POOL PARTY

Live Aid legend and a musician with multiple bands, Midge Ure is looking forward to performing in the scenic grounds of Hampton's open-air pools.

The multi-instrumentalist, singer and songwriter will be the penultimate act of the summer series, now in its 11th season, of concerts organised by Hampton Pool Trust.

The father-of-four says audiences could look forward to a mix of material from his career, which spans more than 35 years.

He says: "It's a kind of potted history of the entire picture. I go back as far as early Ultravox and Visage, but I don't do anything before that as before then I didn't really have any control over what I was doing."

Ure describes Live Aid as a "magnificent flash" and, although it may be the public highlight of his career, he values quieter moments meeting and making music with other artists.

Top security advice to protect your property

With an average of 74 UK homes being burgled each hour, homebuyers are being advised to make sure they step up security.

Mark Hayward, president of the National Association of Estate Agents (NAEA) said: "People shouldn't live in fear of burglary, but there are a few straightforward steps that can be taken to reduce a homeowner's chances of falling victim to this particular crime."

"A new home is likely to be the biggest investment an individual can make."

"As one would carefully choose a high quality lock to secure an expensive bike, assessing the security of a home should be a key priority for any buyer."

The NAEA has the following security advice for homeowners and buyers:

TAMASIN COATES

property@london.newsquest.co.uk

● Avoid being an easy target: The warmer summer months can mean the temptation to leave windows open is high. Even if you are leaving a property for a short time, always make sure all windows are shut and locked to deter opportunist thieves. If you have any concerns about the location, ask the agent if the property has any history of burglaries. Under the new consumer protection regulations, agents are now obliged to disclose information that could affect your trans-actional decision.

● Be alarmed: If your new home doesn't have a burglar alarm, consider installing one, as it is likely to reduce the risk of your home being burgled. If the home already has an alarm, familiarise yourself with how it works and make sure you are able to set a new passcode. If the system relies on sensors around the home, check the batteries on a regular basis.

● Beware letter box theft: It's an old trick, but thieves still use letter box theft to obtain car or house keys. Poles are often used to hook keys from hallway entrances, so keep valuables well away from the front door. If you are planning to fit a new front door, one with a letter box placed towards the bottom can also help deter this sort of theft.

● Light up your life: Dark spots can offer useful cover for anyone seeking to gain unauthorised entry to a property. Therefore, installing motion-sensitive lighting fixtures at access points above front doors and garage doors, gate entrances and in back gardens can serve as a useful deterrent.

Fitting timers to lighting indoors can also be a simple and effective dis-incentive to would-be intruders by giving the impression of activity when you are out.

● Don't get caught out online: Opportunist thieves are increasingly turning to Facebook and Twitter to target unsuspecting victims, so ensure status updates don't give away valuable information about your property. It's only natural to want to show off your new home, but details like your address, and of any holidays you may be taking or photos that make the location of your home identifiable should be kept private.

The lust of the summer wine

The summer is a time for getting out and about and enjoying yourself in the sun.

But it is also a time when the number of casualties on our roads increases, says road safety charity the Institute of Advanced Motorists.

Britain's top advanced driver, Peter Rodger offers drivers tips on how to avoid the drink-drive temptation this summer.

- If you've had a couple at a summer celebration, don't try to calculate whether or not you are over the limit. It's always best to make it none for the road.

- Remember that home measures are often larger than what you'd get in a pub.

- Many crashes involve pedestrians who have been

Leave the car at home – don't risk drink-driving, says IAM drinking and drivers who haven't.

- When walking home after a drink or two, take care and pay attention to your surroundings. When you're driving, be aware that pedestrians may be the worse for wear and unpredictable – especially late at night – and be prepared for them to step out without looking for you.

- If you drive to a party and drink when you didn't expect to, don't risk it. Get a taxi or arrange for a friend or family member to pick you up.

- A drinking session the night before might put you over the legal limit the following day. Keep this in mind and organise alternative travel plans for the next morning.

- If you are involved in a road accident you will be breathalysed. Don't risk it, or somebody else's mistake could become your problem – being hit from behind while sitting at a red traffic light could get you banned.

- Ignore peer pressure. It may seem like a better option to others – for you to risk driving rather than paying for a taxi – but it is your licence and your liberty that is at stake.

IAM chief examiner Peter Rodger said: "The summer is a time of barbecues, jam-packed beer gardens and festivals.

"But the summer sees a rise in drink-drive casualties too.

"Enjoy yourself and leave the car at home if you plan to celebrate with a drink."

Cor blimey, Corpus Christi winners

The stars of Corpus Christi School in New Malden took to the Wembley turf to win the nPower Football League Kids Cup.

The boys were representing Brentford, and appeared prior to their heroes' play-off defeat to Yeovil.

The final was a tight affair, but after a 1-1 draw with Coventry City's Chetwynd School, Corpus Christi, pictured, held their nerve to win 2-0 on penalties.

They were then presented with the trophy at the royal box.

Harriers' golden weekend

Kingston AC & Polytechnic Harriers had a weekend to remember at the Surrey County Track & Field Championships picking up eight gold medals.

Leading the way were the women who left Kingsmeadow after the bank holiday weekend with five gongs.

Dominique Blaize took the senior 100m in 12.13secs, while Mary Iheke, pictured, won the 400m in 55.02secs.

In the U20s, Mae Thompson won the 200m by less than half a second, clocking 26.13secs.

There was more gold in the U17s where Phoebe Callaghan-Mills won the high jump (1.59m) and Phoebe Law won the 1,500m (four minutes, 53.3secs).

For the men, Andrew Robinson won the senior 5,000m in 16:01.34, while Gareth Cook threw 51.51m to win the hammer.

Sam Shaw flew the flag in the U13s, winning the 800m in 2:23.57.

Weir's future passion

by TIM ASHTON

tim.ashton@london.newsquest.co.uk

Kingston's Paralympic hero David Weir will not be turning his back on wheelchair racing even after he retires from the sport he has dominated for almost eight years.

The 33-year-old, who captured the hearts of the nation as the Weirwolf while winning four Paralympic gold medals last year, will not go quietly into the night.

Instead, Weir wants to become a role model to the next generation of wheelchair racers, in the same way he was inspired by the previous generation.

To that end, Weir, who lives in Sutton but trains in Kingston, set up the Weir Archer Academy in Kingsmeadow.

He has also become an ambassador for Barclays My Space for Sport – an initiative promoting sports sites across the country for use by youngsters.

Weir, who recently visited Kingsmeadow in Kingston, and the Longmead Centre and Blenheim High School in Epsom in his ambassadorial role, said: "Going down to these places and seeing the kids practice sports, playing netball, basketball and football is great.

"They are in a safe environment. It keeps them out of trouble and from going in the wrong direction in their lives.

"But it is also about sport. There are coaches on hand at these sites to help the kids

Inspirational: David Weir wants to be a role model to young sports stars even after he retires from international competition develop their skills."

He added: "I trained at Kingsmeadow from the first day it opened. It has been in me for all my life. I don't live in Kingston, but it is in my heart because I am always training there.

"Now I have opened my own academy there. I want to see wheelchair racing grow and see young adults and children getting involved because it is a fantastic sport.

"That is what being an ambassador is about, my goal is to inspire people into sport and that's something I see myself doing long after I retire."

It is not difficult to see the six-time World Champion being anything other than a role model to others as he inspires both young and old without even trying.

"I am at that stage where people look up to me, and they want to follow in my footsteps, not just in wheelchair racing but in able-bodied sports," he said.

"I get joggers who tweet me telling me they have just run past my golden postbox and it has driven them to run a little further and things like that put a smile on my face."

He added: "I had role models when I was growing up. In the very early days, watching the London marathon was the only time where you saw any wheelchair athletes on TV. Chris Hallam was superb.

"As I got into the sport, and getting good, there was one guy called Heinz Frei – he was in the final sprint in this year's marathon, and at 53 years old he is an amazing athlete. He still holds the marathon world record.

"He's a great ambassador for wheelchair racing and I would have loved to race him in his prime. It is a little odd racing against him as he always says I am better than him, but I don't see it that way."

David is the latest Barclays My Space for Sport ambassador, helping promote the 200 Barclays Spaces for Sports sites across the country. Find your nearest site at Barclays.com/spacesforsports CRICKET: Malden Wanderers were beaten by 111 runs at home to Sunbury on Saturday in the Surrey Championship Premier Division. Having been set 275 to win, Wanderers fell short inside 42 overs. In Division Two, Worcester Park went down by four wickets at Chessington. Park hit 157 off 49.1 overs, a score surpassed by Chessington in the 37th over. Kingstonian picked up their first win in Division Four, beating Old Hamptonians by 17 runs.

FOOTBALL: The young guns of Kingstonian U10s are celebrating on two fronts after winning the U10s Surrey Cup and promotion to the Premier Elite Division. James Sternberg scored the only goal of the cup final to secure a 1-0 win against Leatherhead. Bailey Slade was named man of the match.

RUGBY UNION: Kingston-born Henry Thomas came on to make his international senior debut in England's 40-12 demolition of the Barbarians at Twickenham on Sunday. The 21-year-old prop who turns out for Sale Sharks in the Aviva Premiership now jets off for the Argentina tour.

HOCKEY: The men of Surbiton Hockey Club will start their NOW: Pensions Premier Division campaign on September 14 at home to Hampstead & Westminster, while the women take on Clifton at Sugden Road.

'I WILL NEVER BUY SHOES ANYWHERE ELSE AGAIN'

Recruitment manager Andrea Mahn had so much foot pain she could barely walk.

This fit and active 40-year-old had been suffering from Plantar Fasciitis - a painful inflammation of the tissue on the sole of the foot.

"I had treatments by an osteopath, a physiotherapist and a sports therapist but nothing eased the pain," explained Andrea.

Her job requires her to frequently walk and stand, so life was becoming unbearable. She was also unable to partake in her favourite hobby, running.

Andrea saw an advert for Foot Solutions and decided to pay them a visit. "I just turned up hoping that someone would be able to help me," she said, "and it was the best decision I have ever made."

"The staff were knowledgeable, helpful and attentive and after half an hour of tests and examinations they found a solution. It was the most fantastic service I could have imagined."

Foot Solutions provided Andrea with custom shoe inserts and a special device to help stretch her foot at night.

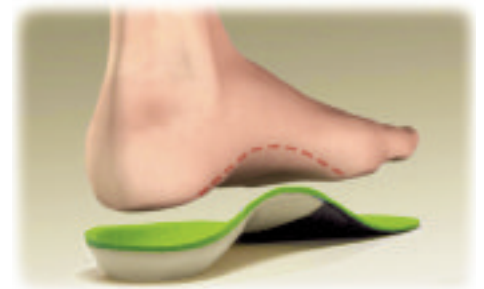

"The device gave me immediate relief from the pain, allowing me to sleep better and when the inserts were fitted in my shoes, it made a huge difference."

"I had faced the prospect of never being able to wear high heels again – but I can now wear them for up to 14 hours if necessary."

"I don't suffer at all now," confirmed Andrea, "I can do my job and go running without pain. I will never buy shoes anywhere else again."
